

Narrative Hook Examples

Simply put, a narrative essay is just like a story. In contrast to the other types of essays where you need to pick a side, argue and prove your point with the help of evidence, a narrative essay gives you a freehand to tell your story however you may please.

It can be a story inspired from your life, something you may have experienced. If you feel like it isn't worth telling or it isn't exciting enough you can always transform it using your imagination.

Examples of a hook sentence for a narrative essay can be something like:

I was riding the bus to school; the other kids were making fun of me thinking I couldn't understand them. "Why are his eyes like that?" "His face is funny." A Chinese kid in America is probably like a zoo animal.